ABOUT ME

As a photographer, I enjoy taking pictures of objects and scenes, rather than people or animals. I like to experiment with composition and arrangement in order to create an interesting and unique scene. When I take photos, I like to bring a different perspective to whatever I capture. I have a tendency to fill the entire scene with my subject, often cutting parts of it out of frame to create a mood of full immersion with the object of attention, and make it crystal clear what the viewer is supposed to focus on.

I've also discovered that I really enjoy working with photo editing software, and would like to continue graphic design as a hobby.
